With the increase in crime, particularly in the inner cities, a need has been created for a device to protect the housewife while walking from the house to the car. The device should be easy to use and unobtrusive so as not to interfere with the housewife's routine. Moreover, the device should be inexpensive and simple to manufacture. In the prior art, there are a number of security devices. For example, U.S. Pat. No. 3,288,495, issued Dec. 29, 1966, to C. M. De La Ronde, teaches a domestic security device. This device is used to prevent the unauthorized entrance of a person in a restricted area. The device includes a pair of housing portions, a conventional door lock adapted to be inserted into the housing portions, and a locking bar connected to the door lock and having interengaging slots and posts for interconnecting the housing portions of the device together. The housing portions are constructed of weather-proof material such as aluminum with covers of simulated stone or plastic material. These devices do not protect a housewife against attack by a thief from behind. Moreover, these devices must be installed before a door is installed. Furthermore, such devices are constructed of relatively heavy material which increases their cost. Accordingly, it is an object of the present invention to provide a device which will protect a housewife from attack by a thief from behind. It is another object of the present invention to provide a device which can be easily and unobtrusively used by a housewife. It is yet another object of the present invention to provide a device which is inexpensive to manufacture and easy to use. Mykonos Nikos Taverna & Tofo Vox When you're lucky enough to get a free meal in a Greek island taverna then it's crucial to appreciate the generosity. Relax and be sociable while you experience what island food is all about. I like to sit inside and talk while others enjoy sunbathing or swimming by the pool. This time I choose to sit under the shade as the sun was burning my eyes. We are met with the usual calm and hospitality as we are shown to our table at the back of the restaurant. Tucked away in a quiet corner are outdoor seating and umbrellas for those who want to enjoy the sun while still having the option of shade. If you want, the menu can be ordered in Greek, which is helpful for those who have little or no knowledge of the language. A large menu awaits and includes fresh, traditional, Mediterranean ingredients. With so many choices you have a good chance of finding something new and exciting that you won't find anywhere else. For me it's always a challenge to select a main with so many mouth watering options. I don't usually rely on meat in my normal meals, but as this was a special occasion I'd heard that the Greek island diet includes many lamb and meat dishes. I decided to order some fresh goat cheese to share and a Greek salad, but there were so many delicious options it was difficult to decide. I ordered the meze starter. Try this some time! Think of it as an appetizer where you're given a selection of small dishes, often served with bread. I chose to try the spanakopita (Greek spinach pie). Served with a Greek salad, it would make a great lunch, and the pomegranate seeds were lovely and crunchy. It was warm and fresh tasting and I really enjoyed the flavours. For main I chose the grilled lamb tagine. Lamb is the most popular meat in Greece and served at every meal. It is cooked and served with potatoes and couscous. I've tried many regional Greek dishes and nothing compares to this. In this dish the lamb was gently cooked, tender and juicy.
